Qik Quora Questions

Introduction

This software is considered "portable". What this means it is installed without writing files to your Windows Registry.

There are a few rules when it comes to installation locations:

CAN be unzipped to Desktop
CAN be unzipped to My Documents
CAN be unzipped to Public Documents

CANNOT be unzipped to ANY Programs Files directory

There are some restrictions simply because the software must write the returned questions to it's storage folder. If installed in a location (like program files directories) where it does not have "write permissions", the software will not work.

Installing / Unzip to Desktop

We are assuming that you know how to unzip a file and move it to desktop. If not, please give a Google a try for that information...

1. Move / copy the ZIP file to your Desktop
2. Right click and choose Unzip or Extract to " QikQuoraQuestions" (we use the free 7Zip software)
3. You should now have a folder called "QikQuoraQuestions"
4. Open the folder and start the EXE

That is all that is needed to get the software ready for setup. Once you start the EXE first time, it might take some extra time and will ask you for Quora credentials.

If you need further help setting up and/or using the software, please use the built in DOCS by clicking the "(i)" button in software header.

The process to install in other above recommended folders is the same, just change folders!

At this time the software is considered "beta". From time to time we will send messages asking you to report any bugs. We would appreciate you responding. We will take responses to fix/improve the software and also build our help system at a later date.
